

Item Navigation

Additional resources

Python allows you to do quite a lot with very little code. Compared to other languages such as Java or C#, Python has a much easier learning curve. It lends itself well to the "write less, do more philosophy". Python developers are also in high demand and learning how to program in Python makes for a good career choice.

You can access the links below to learn more about programming in Python.

Check out the Python website to find out more about built-in functions:

Python

Check out W3 Schools to learn more about coding and web development:

W3Schools

Check out HackerRank to practice your new acquired Python skills:

HackerRank

Completed

Go to next item

Like

Dislike

Report an issue

